Technical Training Scheme - Partial Militarisation of certain Training Centres.

- - - - -

I am directed to inform you that the College of Engineering, Bangalore, which has been training war technicians under the Technical Training Scheme of the Labour Department of the Government of India has since been decided to be converted into a Civmil Centre by the Government of India. In this connection, I am to enclose for your information an extract from the Civmil plan stating that the trainees will be subject to military discipline.

I have the honour to be,

Sir,

Your most obedient servant,

For Chief Secretary to Government.

*5. Civmil Training Centres will continue to be administered under the rules and orders issued by the Labour Dept. and will remain under the supervision and general control of the Regional Inspectors acting on behalf of that Dept. The trainees will, however, be subject to military discipline and cannot be discharged except by order of a competent military authority to be appointed for the purpose by the local Dist. Commander. They will be under the orders of the Heads of the Centres but may be awarded punishments only by the local military authority. Trainees at Civmil Training Centres will not be provided with uniforms.
